

The Head Hunters

BASICS

Role:	Neutral Group
Type:	Investigatory group for hire, that will pursue bounties, protect assets, and get information. Anything around or in between; as long as it has a paycheck.
Scale:	Small
Caliber:	Varies from member to member; associate to associate.
Founded:	Twenty-Twenty-Two (2022)
Ideology:	Neither good nor bad, the headhunters are a group that follow no specific alignment. Each person has their own reason for joining. The group works together like private eyes. They are extra hands for higher, but sometimes they pursue something that they see as an interest without hire. They work with respect, however respect to the members of the group is held higher than that of the clientele. On top of that, they're honorable but mostly towards each other.
Methodology:	The headhunters work together to catch convicts, criminals, and assigned bounties. They'll even help you if they're paid for their work, dabbling in various types of activity. They will steal for you, they will protect an asset for you, they will even work as hired bodyguards. The one notable thing is, they usually don't work alone. The majority of the group is usually in on it, if they are hired. Depending on the task, some group members might not be involved. Their method of work, especially for capture, is not quick. They also enjoy bringing along affiliates, as long as they offer a good skill.
Exposure:	The headhunters are known for their conflicting ideologies, goals, and motivations. Even so they work together, no matter their specific alignment. They're not mourned for their brutality, nor for being fearful, but rather for being effective. They're known for standing up to disrespectful clientele, no matter how high the pay.
Background:	A group brought together, not by greed, but by motivation. The headhunters work for a variety of clientele. Each member has their own alignment, and their own reason for joining the headhunters. This offers them a higher range of income. There isn't a luxurious background to the group, even its forming was simply because of Carbon's desire for action.
